Expert Life and Annuity Administration for Insurance

Many vendors claim to have a “new” life system solution. Most recent marketplace entrants have created digital-first platforms that operate best by only handling new, simplified products in a standalone environment. They fail to bridge the gap between the complexity of life and annuity products and the need to grow to meet demand with new up-and-coming products. And, they can’t unify life environments by bringing together all of an insurer’s previously-developed life expertise into a package that will still serve the needs of today’s digital consumer. Life insurers need a robust platform that can handle both simple and complex products while meeting digital initiatives and improving the ability to configure and change the system to meet current demands.

LIDP built a system to meet these needs, now and for the future.

It is called Titanium.

TITANIUM

It's time for a new direction.

Change is always on the horizon. Life insurers and annuity providers are faced with many challenges that are driving them to modernize their legacy environments. Mergers and acquisitions may force them to integrate/consolidate systems. The need for digital ecosystem access may force them to seek new transformation options. No matter what the issue or challenge, the question of finding the right transformation platform presents an opportunity. Titanium, a future-focused system, allows insurers to gain a host of forward-thinking capabilities.

What Do You Need?

TITANIUM HAS IT, ALREADY BUILT-IN, READY-TO-USE OR CONFIGURE.

PRODUCTS AND FUNCTIONS

Titanium is the answer.

Titanium allows carriers the flexibility to launch new innovative products with its rules-based engine, improving speed to market. Its high touch digital attributes give agents and consumers what they expect from a modern insurer.

When it comes to technology, LIDP has developed the kinds of systems and processes that make life easier on technicians and users alike. LIDP built Titanium to exacting standards that provide straight through processing (STP) for nearly every life & annuity product on the market today. Titanium can be deployed in-house or in the cloud and it is highly secure, giving carriers the peace-of-mind they need to protect their customers and agents.

For both cloud deployments and onsite systems, Titanium shows its flexibility and its muscle. It can be deployed within nearly any environment that fits insurer needs and operates well on nearly any commercially-available Application Server or Open Source Solution.

Unmatched End-to-End Capability for Life Administration

Now you can have the best of both worlds. LIDP's Titanium uses next-generation technology with a plug-and-play, service-oriented architecture (SOA) that is ALSO a highly-robust insurance system containing over 40 years of product and service wisdom. When it comes to insurance process automation and complex real-time rating, quoting and underwriting, LIDP rules and expertise match real-world use. LIDP clients prove Titanium's value every day.

TITANIUM SYSTEM COMPONENTS

Titanium's functionality is so comprehensive that subsystems, such as Claims, Billing and Reinsurance are more complete than most similar standalone products. For a full list of subsystems and more detailed information on Titanium, visit www.lidp.com.

COMPENSATION MANAGEMENT SYSTEM (CMS)

Even with today's direct-to-consumer products on the rise, agencies and brokerages still represent the most valuable channel for sustained growth. LIDP supports insurers with a complete solution for agent contracting, licensing, compensation, and reporting. CMS also includes tools to aide in the conversion and migration of agent information and contracts from legacy systems.

EXPERIENCE ACROSS INSURANCE, TECHNOLOGY AND BUSINESS

Our insurance experts have a deep understanding of the common hurdles that all carriers. We also grasp those unique issues that are inherent with certain types of life and annuity business. LIDP is an expert in life and annuity administration solutions. To become the best, we have maintained a broad knowledge-base across the whole insurance enterprise.

LIDP expertise has been built into Titanium. Titanium contains over 40 years of industry standard product configurability. Standard product types are configurable out of the box. Many standard product configurations are included with the system and these product configurations can be easily cloned and modified to build and support user-configured products. This leads to shortened implementation cycles and ease of business user configurability (for most operations), which saves valuable IT resources. For LIDP, our success is measured in finding new efficiencies, creating solutions to business and technology hurdles, and positioning our clients for growth.

LIDP has a 100% success rate for implementation and conversion projects and enjoys excellent relationships with every one of our client-partners.
